Hey Ted, you can edit your Respect My Privacy settings here.

no-commercial:

This restriction communicates that you do not want your profile and anything associated with it use for commercial purposes. For example, no one has your permission to use your picture or other parts of your profile for any commercial use.

no-depiction:

no-employment:

This restriction communicates that you do not want your profile and anything associated with it used for employment purposes. For example, employers do not have your permission to use information from your profile to influence a hiring decision.

no-financial:

This restriction communicates that you do not want your profile and anything associated with it used for financial purposes. For example, financial institutions do not have your permission to use information from your profile to influence a loan/credit decision.

no-medical:

This restriction communicates that you do not want your profile and anything associated with it used for medical purposes. For example, medical institutions do not have your permission to use information from you profile to influence a medical insurance decision.

One more thing!

The Respect My Privacy project is still at its inception. We are planning to add more restrictions to help further protect your privacy!. If you have any restrictions that you would like to see added to Respect My Privacy, please give us suggestions below!

Got FOAF?

The FOAF (Friend of a Friend) project is a way of representing people in a machine-readable format. It is part of a larger project, The Semantic Web. You can think of it your Facebook profile but without the structure and regulations of Facebook surrounding it.

This FOAF file represents you on the Semantic Web!

This FOAF exporter will help you by creating a FOAF file based on your Facebook data. The FOAF exporter was created by Matthew Rowe (the original) and has been altered slightly to include your Respect My Privacy settings!

Download your new FOAF file (exported from you Facebook profile) below!

Future work

- Move towards decentralized social networking
 - Make FOAF panel mimic the functionality of a social network profile page
- On the Tabulator, we can move forward on accountability mechanisms.
